

Do you want to get to the heart of your workplace dynamics? Book a Workplace Review today

The purpose of a Tima Workplace Review is to establish your current workplace environment, the relevant workplace history and strategy to improve the workplace dynamics.

A Workplace Review involves face to face, structured interviews with small groups spanning the workplace. It is this personal and direct approach that allows the review to penetrate beyond the limits of conventional surveys and to get to the heart of the workplace dynamics that impact productivity and employee engagement.

A Workplace Review is designed to be a stand alone investment that provides useful insights and recommendations. Ideally however the Workplace Review would be followed by a culture change programme, such as Tima's Transformational Work Practices (TWP) programme for supervisors and front line leaders.

What your company gets

- Detailed insights into your workplace from the employees' perspective and a strategy to improve the workplace dynamics.
- Greater uptake of change projects to improve productivity.
- Support for the efforts of supervisors and front line leaders, and reduced tension between employees at work.

Tima applies a unique set of human-social factors to influence behaviour and drive lasting productivity gains.

The TWP programme delivers clear, practical strategies for improving individual, team and organisational performance.
